

STURGIS WEEKLY RECORD
Thursday, June 10, 1926

“Custer’s Last Fight”

“Custer’s Last Fight” is a production which every man will see with a little reminiscent catch of the breath, as he recalls how stirring and exciting were the first accounts of Custer’s lone stand against the hordes of hostile Indians, and how he died fighting. He will remember how, in many a sham battle fought in the backyard, he too, stood and died by an imaginary flag. Every man, woman, and child will see back of that brave deed, the foundation of the great American heroism of today. At the Majestic Theatre, Sunday and Monday.