DIED

James McGee died last Sunday morning, after an illness of about two months.

He was a man 73 years of age, and an old timer in this country, having been wagon master under Custer at the time the latter was killed. He has a number of horses out near Seim, in charge of a man named Wilson, but had about $30 in the banks here when he died. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity, and that order looked after him, also attending to the funeral, which occurred Wednesday afternoon.
